

Shhh...
don't talk.

Read His (Sexy) Lips

A man's kisser can't lie, according to body-language experts. Pay attention to these subtle mouth moves and you won't have to ask what he's thinking.

● He's Smirking

When the corners of a guy's mouth pull back and up, it can look like a douchey sneer. But surprisingly, it means he wants to smile, but he's feeling self-conscious. It's harder for men to show positive emotions, so this mini smile is his "controlled" version of a big grin.

● His Pout Is Pursued

He probably has bad news—like he dented your car or can't make it to your BFF's party. A scrunched-up pucker and tension around his lips are signs he is struggling to force out the words.

● He Covers His Mouth With His Palm

Something (you?) is making him nervous! Touching himself is a form of self-soothing, and briefly shielding his lips shows he's feeling too tongue-tied to speak.

● He Bites His Lip

Yeah, baby, he's hot for you. Chewing is what we do to something yummy, so he's subconsciously nibbling his lips, imagining putting them on yours.

SOURCES: BODY-LANGUAGE EXPERT LILLIAN GLASS, PHD; BODY-LANGUAGE EXPERT AUDREY NELSON, PHD, COAUTHOR OF CODE SWITCHING: HOW TO TALK SO MEN LISTEN